

Indefinite Pronouns

- Compound words of some, any, no and every -

An indefinite pronoun is a pronoun that does not refer to a specific person, place, thing or idea.

Some indefinite pronouns are compound words of some-, any-, no- and every-.

Now pay attention to the following chart:

	People	Things	Places
some-	someone somebody	something	somewhere
any-	anyone anybody	anything	anywhere
no-	no one nobody	nothing	nowhere
every-	everyone everybody	everything	everywhere

How do we use these indefinite pronouns?

SOME-

- Affirmative sentences and questions when a Yes or No answer is expected:

e.g. Someone was sitting on the sofa.

- Can you do something to help?

 ANY-

- Negative sentences (used with not) and questions (used without not):

e.g. The police couldn't find her anywhere.

Is there anything to eat?

- Affirmative sentences with the meaning of every- when the intention is to give emphasis:

e.g. He was prepared to try anything to find his daughter.

He wants to help the police to find missing people anywhere in the world.

 NO-

- Affirmative sentences but with a negative meaning (used without not):

e.g. Nobody was at home when I called.

There was nothing we could do.

 EVERY-

- Affirmative sentences and questions:

e.g. The police looked for her everywhere.

Is everything all right?
